

And in the year of our Lord God (according to the computation) of these Indentures interchangeably have put to their hands cements either of the said parties bindeth himselfe unto the some of the City of London during the said term, meaning correction finding unto his said apprentice, meaning and Master his said apprentice in the same three as a full apprentice shall behave himselfe He shall not have livery, nor absent himselfe He shall not have his own goods or others due to the the said term. He shall not play at the Cardes, Dice the goods of his said Master, nor lend them to any to be done of other, but that he to his power shall his secrets keep, his full commandments next following to be fully complete and ended: And of the said apprentice to serve within (after the manner of apprentice) to serve Citizen and Merchant of London in the County of Middlesex that George...

His Indenture witnesseth of Rowland... doth put himselfe apprentice to of London, to learne his Arte: And w...

And after ne of... yeeres from thence and Apprentice, his said Master faithfully shall serve shall do no damage to his said Master, nor see to his said Master of the same: He shall not waste in fornication, nor contract matrimony with in full games whereby his said Master may have of his said Master he shall neither buy nor sell service day nor night unlawfully. But in all thing Master, and all his during the said term. And he of his: he shall teach and instruct with dre and all other necessaries, according to the custome of all and singular the said covenants and agree in, witnesses whereof the parties above named to lay of England the... and Six hundredth and King JAMES, &c.